PETITION FOR RECOVERY

BELCOURT VS. BROUTIN

Mr. Belcourt petitions the Superior Council alleging that Mr. Broutin owes him amount of a bill, for 20 barrels of shelled corn which his wife delivered to said Broutin for the concession of Mr. Leblanc at Natchez, Feb. 22, 1723, as it appears on the said bill. Belcourt asks that Broutin be ordered to repay said amount of corn in the same quality, including interest and costs.

DEFAMATION OF CHARACTER SUIT

LOUIS TIXERRANT

vs.

CADOT

Sworn declaration by Tixerrant, alleging that during the course of a conversation with Cadot he asked Cadot about the epithets and verses which are being circulated against the honor and reputation of the ladies of New Orleans and others.

Cadot admitted he had written several and among them was one about Tixerrant, entitled "The Weaver and the Shuttle".

Cadot showed him some of the verses, but refused to give them to Tixerrant, who became so angry that he struck Cadot several times.

Adrien de Pauger
vs
Bienville

(In Re: Repossession of plantation)

Petition of de Pauger, in which he alleges; that, a little more than 3 years ago he settled on a piece of unoccupied ground opposite New Orleans, built a house on it, and after the death of a negro from overwork, he installed a German family, and five or six laborers and he has nourished them with French bread, brandy and meat for over fifteen months;

That, he has been peacefully occupying the premises for over 3 years; that he spent more than 2500 livres improving the property; that he sustained the loss of a negro (piece d'Inde) for whom he had refused 1800 livres.

He therefore prays that he be allowed to remain in possession of this property.

Interrogation of Jean Baptiste Marlot, former Chief Clerk of the Company of the Indies. The following information was brought out:

He had loaded aboard the transfer boat a package which he thinks, contained bolt colored goods. He had some of the employees of the company do the packing, as a friendly act towards Pasquier, who had, on several occasions, loaned, free of charge, carriages and pirogues.

That Caron in his deposition of April 13, 1723, made a mistake. Caron gave him only one trunk, two quarts and one crock of gin;

He had no business affiliations with Pasquier, they were friends who at times, ate, drank and slept together;

He did not know he was violating any rules, nor that the merchandise belonged to the Spanish. Etc.

GEARD VS. BEAULIEU.

PETITION FOR NORMAL DRAINAGE. (Copy)

Mr. Ceard director of Ste. Renne grant (written here Ste. Reynne), complains that Mr. Beaulieu has obstructed a certain bayou which gave outlet to the waters of a lake fronting on the Chapitoulas site. The overflow now floods Mr. Ceard's land. Moreover, Mr. Lafreniere has drained his ditch into Mr. Ceard's property, and makes the selfish excuse: better flood others than himself.

Said flood completely covers plaintiff's land, destroying their usefulness, therefore he prays that Mr. Broutin and Perry make a report of the proces verbal and establish boundaries on said property. Original signed, Bienville Brusle, Fazende, Perry. A margin is left for later decision by Fleuriau.

The son of Lafreniere became the heroic Attorney General of Louisiana, who was executed by O' Reilly for being the leader of the revolution against the Spanish government. His plantation (sequestered by the Spanish government) was evidently on the land in question. It lay above the city of New Orleans (the land of the Tchoupitoulas) and adjoined if it did not occupy, the present site of Audubon Park.

ENGINEERS REPORT ON FLOODED LANDS.

Chapitoulas, March 15, 1724. Royal Engineer Chaville and Captain Broutin, engineer, find that the immediate cause of overflow on the Ste. Reine grant, is artificial or owing to stoppage of an outlet bayou between Lafreniere and Beaulieu lands, as also to a ditch opened by Mr. Lafreniere to drain his land into the river. But, there is evidence, too, by marshy formation that the Mississippi has been long accustomed to periodic overflows in those parts. They first recommend reopening of the closed bayou and a system of levees with interior ditching to carry drainage far back from the river; but secondly, for better economy, they suggest a coffer levee.

MEMORIAL OF MR. GEARD.

Geard shows in logical detail, and with reference to the natural topography, the mischief inevitably consequent on the operations of Messrs. Chauvin and Lafreniere. He and his fellow sufferers from the abnormal overflow can now neither plant their crops, nor yet utilize the adjoining cypress tracts for timber; since these, too, have become flooded. Mr. Beaulieu was another party to the mischief by closing his bayou. Geard asks for redress.

Lafreniere vs. Ceard.

Aiming to show Mr. Ceard in error as regards the cause of overflow. The same bayou was closed a year ago during flood season, and Mr. Ceard lodged no complaint. As to the ditch opening into the river, Mr. Lafreniere closed it before the flood reached the flat. (Mr. Ceard has it that Mr. Lafreniere strove to do so, but too late and in vain.) In short Mr. Ceard had only to blame his own negligence; he should have done like the rest. Besides, why did he not halt Mr. Dubreuil, who first started the operations now opposed?

Petition of Fleuriau, Procurator General for the King, in which he alleges that he has been advised the officers and the crew of the vessel "Le Chameau" are engaged in public commerce despite the rules of the Company of the Indies, which forbids the sale of wools and fine merchandise; that De La Place and his associates exact payment in piastres of 4 livres each, whereas there is an ordinance fixing the rate of exchange at 7 1/2 livres.

He therefore prays that the Clerk, Sheriff and two Councillors be ordered to go aboard ship and inspect the wools and merchandise not forming part of the cargo.

In the chests of Chesneau, Captain, were found hats, ribbons and silk stockings he claimed was brought here by him as an accommodation to his friends who gave him the money to buy them.
They are not intended for sale.

They then proceeded to open the chests of the following officers and the crew:

Celier	-	in whose chest was found nothing.
De La Place	-	five or six lengths of silk and some cotton thread, several hats, a half piece of satin.
Marin	-	1/2 gross of Spanish (undecipherable)

In the store-room was found a barrel of wine, some hams and other edibles.

None of the merchandise was seized, except
