SUCCESSION OF JEAN FERCHAUD.

Answer of Sr. D'Auseville,
Administrator of Vacant Successions,
to petition of Sr. Fillart, served on respondent on October 8th.

Respondent avers that Sr. Fillart, who was associated with the decedent in the ownership, repairs, outfitting and operation of the ship "St. Jean Baptiste", had induced decedent to spend a considerable amount of money completing the vessel, and that it would cost another large sum to make it sea-worthy; that the sum realized by plaintiff through the sale of a slave and cattle was used by him in the partnership formed between him and Sr. Marin, and was in no way connected with his interest in the "St. Jean Baptiste".

Respondent further avers that it is customary in the event of the death of one of the partners, to sell the ship, the creditors having recourse to the proceeds.

Respondent further avers that the 3500 livres furnished by Sr. Fillart to the partnership were used to buy boards as part of the cargo; that said lumber should be sold for the benefit of the partnership.

Respondent further avers that the tobacco furnished by Fillart is in Ferchaud's cellar, and should be returned to plaintiff.

Respondent further avers that plaintiff should bear his pro-rata of loss on other expenses made in connection with the repairing and refitting of said ship, particularly of the sum of 241 livres 10 sols rent paid for negroes.

Answering plaintiff's demand for a salary of 100 livres, Respondent further avers that it is not customary to pay a salary in such cases but that a hat is usually given costing 60, 100, or even 300 livres, according to the value of the ship; that the ship is not yet rigged or conditioned; that it is only a bark; that Sr. Fillard has been given his board and that he should now receive only a hat costing ten pistoles.

SUCCESSION OF JEAN FERCHAUD.

JUDGMENT

approving the refusal of Sr. D'Auseville to act as Testamentary Executor and
ordering him to administer said succession as Administrator of Vacant Successions.

After considering the petition of Sr. D'Auseville, wherein he alleges that whereas he was appointed testamentary executor under the last will of decedent, he is now unwilling to act as such because said will is fallacious and prejudicial to the rights of creditors, and wherein he prays to be allowed to act therein as Administrator of Vacant Successions, the Superior Council approves the action of Sr. D'Auseville in desisting from exercising the functions of testamentary executor and without ruling on the nullity of the will, orders him to administer said succession in the capacity of Administrator of Vacant Successions.

The two most objectionable clauses in said will appear to be the following:

- (1) The clause whereby testator outlines the continuation of the operations of the "St. Louis" by Sr. Fillart, the accounting thereof to be made to testator's family by the testamentary executor.

It is shown in the petition that such a plan is impossible as the vessel does not belong to the partners, Sr. Ferchaud, who purchased same (under another name) having been a bankrupt and fugitive from Bordeaux.

- (2) The clause whereby testator directs the testamentary executor to administer the property of the succession without recourse to tribunals of justice.

It is shown that a testamentary executor has not the right to proceed in such manner, which is contrary to established laws, particularly the waiving of a judicial inventory, to which Sr. D'Auseville refused to consent.

SUCCESSION OF JEAN FERCHAUD.

Petition of Sr. D'Auseville praying for annulment of will.

Petitioner alleges that said will should be declared null because it disposes of property which does not belong to testator, who is a fugitive bankrupt from Bordeaux, who came to this colony under the assumed name of Dubreuil, his nephew, in order to evade his creditors; and that said will contains two particularly objectionable clauses as follows:

- (1) The testator desires that the operation of the "St. Louis" be continued after his death by Sr. Fillart, the testamentary executor to render accounts thereof to testator's family.
- (2) The testamentary executor is to administer said estate without recourse to courts of justice.

Sr. D'Auseville refuses to act as testamentary executor and prays for order to administer said succession in his capacity of Administrator of Vacant Successions.
